PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Summer is here and the outdoors calendar is filling. I encourage you to share your love of the outdoors by inviting others to join you on our hikes and outings. Visitors often become members. I also encourage you to bring a family member to one Club event this summer and find a day to volunteer for a local park or conservation organization. It is truly better to give than receive.

Our Technology Committee collected your input and gained board of director's approval to create an enhanced web site for the Club. The new web site www.indyhike.org complements the existing schedule and publications, while promoting the Club to over two million people in central Indiana. The team, Ed Wright, Bob Hackenberg, Brad Tollefson and Sukhbir Singh, have built on Reba Wooden's four-year work to create an exemplary portrait of the Club's activities. Check out and bookmark our new web site.

Your board of directors meets monthly to approve the schedule, new members and to conduct other business of the Club. Ron Craig serves as the Conservation Officer, maintaining a liaison with national, state and local outdoors organizations. Al Dreihobl, Tish Brafford, Juan Marie Chevalier and Ricki Jo Hoffman serve as the four "at large" directors. Anna Buckholz has the all important vice president role, preparing for a successful coming year.

Members have recommended three more books for your consideration:

Angle of Repose (1971) by Wallace Stegner (an American west historical fiction)

Nature via Nurture: Genes, Experience and What Makes Us Human (2003) by Matt Ridley

The Joy Luck Club (1989) by Amy Tan

Now that Dick's Sporting Goods is competing with Galyan's in the local market, it may be a good time to shop for the latest outdoors products. Some Club members rave about the Camelbak water holder, Under Armour clothing and BodyGlide crème to prevent chafing and blisters. While you're thinking about your health, remember that you need to prepare for the summer heat. Hats, sunglasses, sunscreen, extra water and
